Sample HR & Workplace Policy | Fictional Company: BrightPath Solutions

Document purpose: This sample policy document is designed for testing a PDF-based HR / policy question-answering assistant. The company and policies are fictional. Employees should consult their actual HR team for official guidance.

1. Leave and Time-Off Policy

Annual leave: Full-time employees receive 18 paid annual leave days per calendar year. Leave is credited monthly at 1.5 days per month. Employees joining during the year receive a prorated balance.

Applying for leave: Employees should submit a leave request through the HR portal at least 5 working days before planned leave. Managers approve requests based on team coverage and business needs. Emergency or unexpected leave should be reported to the manager as soon as reasonably possible.

Carry-forward: Up to 5 unused annual leave days may be carried into the next calendar year. Carried-forward days must be used by March 31; otherwise, they expire unless local law or a written company exception says otherwise.

Sick leave: Employees receive 10 paid sick leave days per year. If an employee is absent for more than 2 consecutive working days, HR may request a medical certificate, subject to applicable law. Sick leave should be recorded in the HR portal.

Public holidays: The company observes the public holidays listed in its annual holiday calendar. If business operations require an employee to work on a holiday, the manager and HR will confirm the applicable compensatory time or payment arrangement.

2. Work Hours and Attendance

Standard schedule: The normal work schedule is Monday through Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., including a 1-hour lunch break. Individual teams may have approved schedules that differ.

Flexible hours: Employees may request a flexible start time between 8:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. with manager approval, provided core collaboration hours of 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. are covered.

Attendance: Employees must record attendance using the company-approved system. If they expect to be late or absent, they should notify their manager promptly. Repeated unreported absences may be referred to HR.

Overtime: Overtime must be approved in advance by the manager. Eligibility and compensation are determined by the employee’s role, contract, and applicable law.

HR & WORKPLACE POLICY

3. Remote and Hybrid Work

Eligibility: Remote or hybrid work depends on role requirements, performance, data-security needs, and manager approval. Approval may be reviewed when business needs change.

Availability: Employees working remotely should be reachable during their agreed working hours and attend scheduled meetings. They should keep their calendar current and communicate any periods of unavailability.

Equipment and security: Company devices must be used in accordance with IT policies. Employees must protect confidential information, use approved secure connections, lock devices when unattended, and report lost devices or suspected security incidents to IT immediately.

Work location: Employees must obtain approval before working from another country or from a location that could create tax, legal, security, or employment concerns.

4. Benefits and Employee Support

Health coverage: Eligible full-time employees may enroll in the company's group health insurance plan. Coverage, dependents, limits, and enrollment deadlines are described in the current benefits guide.

Learning and development: Employees may request reimbursement for approved job-related courses or certifications. Requests must be approved by the manager before enrollment and submitted with proof of payment and completion.

Employee assistance: Employees who need workplace support may contact HR. Information will be handled discreetly and shared only as needed, subject to legal and safety obligations.

5. Code of Conduct and Reporting

Respectful workplace: Employees are expected to treat colleagues, customers, and partners respectfully. Harassment, discrimination, bullying, threats, and retaliation are not tolerated.

Raising a concern: Employees may report a concern to their manager, HR, or the designated ethics contact. Reports should include relevant dates, people involved, and available details. HR will review concerns fairly and, where appropriate, confidentially.

Conflicts of interest: Employees must disclose actual or potential conflicts of interest, including outside work or personal relationships that could affect business decisions, to their manager or HR.
